

The Department of Surgery at Weill Cornell Medicine and NewYork-Presbyterian is a leader in Robotic-Assisted Surgery, having completed

4,000+
Robotic-Assisted Procedures

Your Health Is Our Priority

Some illnesses simply can't wait. If your doctor has already determined that you need surgery, don't delay care you need. Ignoring something that requires surgery can result in prolonged pain, worsening of the condition, such as the spread of cancer, or even emergency surgery.

Is Robotic-Assisted Surgery Right For You?

Talk with your doctor about the benefits and and risks of robotic-assisted surgery and how it compares with other techniques, such as other types of minimally invasive surgery and conventional open surgery.

Return To Your New Normal Faster

When compared to traditional surgery, minimally invasive surgery may result in less pain and faster recovery.

Depending on the procedure, patients may leave the hospital the same day and may return to normal activities more quickly than patients recording from open surgery.

Get back to the activities you enjoy, such as playing with grandchildren, enjoying a golf or walking trail.

Rasa Zarnegar, M.D.

(212) 746-5130
Foregut Surgery
Complex GI Surgery

NewYork-Presbyterian/Weill Cornell Medical Center

Cheguevara Afaneh, M.D.

(646) 962-8462
Bariatric Surgery
Complex GI Surgery

NewYork-Presbyterian/Weill Cornell Medical Center

Omar Bellorin-Marin, M.D.

(646) 962-8462
Bariatric Surgery
General Surgery

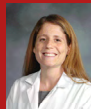

NewYork-Presbyterian/Weill Cornell Medical Center

Karim J. Halazun, M.D.

(212) 746-2127
Liver Surgery
Pancreas Surgery

NewYork-Presbyterian/Weill Cornell Medical Center

Kelly A. Garrett, M.D.

(646) 962-2270
Colon and Rectal Surgery

NewYork-Presbyterian/Weill Cornell Medical Center

Justin G. Steele, M.D.

(718) 643-0483
General Surgery

NewYork-Presbyterian Brooklyn Methodist Hospital

Roseanna Lee, M.D.

(718) 851-0495
General Surgery

NewYork-Presbyterian Brooklyn Methodist Hospital

Your safety is important to us.

We recognize that the last few months have had an impact on so many, including you and your patients. No matter the challenge, our commitment to you is that we will never stop providing the highest standards of care with compassion. Our surgeons are here to help, so give us a call or visit us at surgery.weill.cornell.edu

Learn more about policies, protocols and efficiencies applied for the safety of our patients and care teams:

weillcornell.org/coronavirus/about-your-new-experience